Preface.

This index of direct and indirect allusions to persons and places mentioned in the tragedies of Seneca has been prepared with the following purposes in view: first, to afford an additional resource to the various Concordances to Seneca's Plays which have already been prepared; second, to provide a basis for further study of Seneca's stylistic, literary, and mythological usage.

That the ten tragedies ascribed to Seneca, by virtue of their style and content, had an enormous influence upon English tragedy of the Elizabethan age, and that many of our own ideas of tragedy date from him, are established facts, justifying the fullest investigations into his plays. An outstanding feature of Seneca's style, quickly noted by even the casual reader, is his frequent reference to mythology. In fact, few authors of any age use a style so highly allusive as his. Consequently, a closer study and more careful analysis of this author's use of mythology would be profitable for purposes of comparison between his own plays and the writings of his predecessors, Virgil and Ovid. Such a study might be valuable too for philological reasons, helping to determine the genuineness of authorship of certain of the plays. It would be important to ascertain, for example, what is the relative frequency of direct and indirect allusions in the plays, what characters are mentioned most frequently, and whether these are consistent, whether Seneca intentionally alludes to certain persons by indirection, always avoiding the use of their names. Perhaps the fact that one-fifth of the sixty persons mentioned only indirectly occur in the Octavia may shed light upon the much discussed question of the authorship of that play. Further, the literary significance of allusions employed by Seneca might well be considered in such a study as is here outlined, showing whether or not Seneca used them to heighten an effect consciously sought, whether they are spontaneous or seem to be added in a lifeless, artificial way, as critics, particularly those who have read Seneca only casually or carelessly, have frequently asserted. It is hoped that this index will be of service in the further study of Seneca in the particulars here suggested.

The references that have been collected will be found to divide themselves into four main classes:

Functional, that is alluding to a person by his well-known office, as:

Ceres— tibi frugum potens HF 300;

Pluto —tu, nigrantis regna qui torques poli HO 938;

Medea— haec scelerum artifex M 734;

Pallas—praesidem terrae deam Pha 109;

Priamus—teque rectorem Phrygum Tr 29;

Cerberus —inse custos carceris diri Th 16.

Historical, allusion through the mention of an historical event, as:

Antonius— trium ferrum ducum Oc 508;

Areopagus—illa te vocat facere innocentes terra quae
superos solet HF 1344;

Helena— pestis, exitium, lues utrisque populi Tr 892;

Virginia—virgo dextra caesa parentis Oc 297.

Geographical, identification by place, as:

Cerberus—Stygius canis Pha 223;

Pyrrhus—Scyrius iuvenis Tr 976;

Nestor—Pylai senis Tr 212;

Procne—Thraecia paelex HF 149;

Sparta—muris quod caret oppidum M 79;

Phoebus—Pastor Delius HF 451;

Phoebus—Delphico deo Oe 214.

Genealogical, identification by family relationship, as:

Calais—satique Borea M 231;

Astyanax—Hectoris proles Tr 597;

Iuno—soror Tonantis HF 1;

Hercules—Alcides HF 107, 505, 770, 818, 1061, M 634, Pha
843, A 814, 858, HO 370, 431, 499, 508,
765, 771, 850, 910, 1178, 1291, 1498.
1517, 1608, 1805, 1881, 1905, 1911, 1972,
1976, Oc 210;

Hesione—Dilecta Priami nempe Dardanii soror HO 363.

All citations are made from Peiper and Richter ed. 1902.

In their text there will be found, pp. 431-491, an index Nominum et Rerum, which, however, does not purport to give all the indirect allusions; furthermore, as the percentage of error is high in the numbering of the lines quoted, and its citations are not arranged according to the Peiper-Richter order of plays, it has been of little assistance in preparing the present index. The Mythological Index pp. 499-534 in The Tragedies of Seneca by Frank Justus Miller also does not give a complete list of persons and places both direct and indirect. The Epitheta Deorum compiled by Jesse B.

Carter 1902 gives only a few of the allusions to be found in Seneca's Tragedies.

The following rules have been observed:

1. All names are listed alphabetically and all citations are given in the order of the plays.
2. Direct references are merely cited with the number of the line where they occur, as: Achilles Tr 204, 242, 943, 955, etc.
3. Indirect references are bracketed and quoted with enough of the context to identify the person or place, as: (Hesione) Dilecta Priami nempe Dardanii soror HO 363. In cases where the same person is also mentioned elsewhere directly, the indirect references are arranged in the order of the plays beneath the direct, as: Achilles Tr 204-242 etc.

implevit omne litus irati sonus Tr 190.

4. Abbreviations used are as follows: HF, Tr, Pho, M, Pha, Oe, A, Th, HO, and Oc for Hercules Furens, Troades, Phoenissae, Medea, Phaedra, Oedipus, Agamemnon, Thyestes, Hercules Oetaeus, and Octavia.
5. Material in the variant readings has been disregarded.

The following editions, translations, lexica etc. have been consulted:

1. L. Annaei Senecae Tragoediae cum notis, Schroeder, Delphis 1728.
2. Lucii Annaei Senecae Tragoedae, Peiper-Richter ed. 1902, Lipsiae.
3. L. Annaei Senecae Tragoediae cum notis, Gronovius, 1682, Amsterdam.
4. Tragédies de Sénèque par E. Greslou et M. Cabaret-Dupaty, Paris.

5. Seneca's Tragedies—Text with Translation, W. Bradshaw, 1857, London.
6. Three Tragedies of Seneca, Hugh McMaster Kingery, 1908, New York.
7. Tragedies of Seneca, Translation, Ella Isabel Harris, 1904, London and New York.
8. The Tragedies of Seneca, Translation, Frank Justus Miller, 1907, Chicago.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied. In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β .

2. In the second part of the paper the problem of the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved for the case when the functions $f_1(x)$ and $f_2(x)$ are linear functions of x . It is shown that the system has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied. In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β .

3. In the third part of the paper the problem of the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved for the case when the functions $f_1(x)$ and $f_2(x)$ are quadratic functions of x . It is shown that the system has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied. In this case the solution is unique and is given by the formula where x_1 and x_2 are the solutions of the system of equations (1) for $\alpha = 1$ and $\beta = 0$ and $\alpha = 0$ and $\beta = 1$ respectively. It is shown that the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is also necessary for the existence of a solution of the system (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β .
